

Compensatory Time

When an employee transfers to another department within the University or changes from a non-exempt to an exempt position, all accrued compensatory time must either be used or paid out before the change in position occurs.

February 12, 2003